The Blue Bird" Next Week.

Maeterlinek's exquisite fantasy of happiness, "The Blue Bird," will pay a farewell visit next week to the Garrick Theatre, Detroit, where it was the big unquestioned success of the last two seasons. It packed the theatre on the two previous visits and the advance sale indicates that the third and final engagement will be equally large.

"The Blue Bird" is the story of man's quest of happiness and contentment, under the charming fable of two children's pursuit of the mystic, elusive creature of the woods. The production is perhaps the most expensive that was ever sent on a road tour. It was built by the directors of the New Theatre
