New Labor Negotiator Resigns

Schools Seeking Changes In Negotiations

By MARY PADEN

FARMINGTON

With three union contracts awaiting settlement, the resignation of the district's full time labor negotiator, and the request of several board members to form a board labor negotiations committee, the Farmington Board of Education is up to its gavel in labor talk last week.

Farmington teachers are in the second year of a two-year contract, but contracts had not been settled last week with the newly formed Farmington Assn. of School Administrators (FASA), which is made up of principals and middle administrators, the bus drivers and the custodian unions.

Farmington's full time negotiator, Fred Oswald, left the district Friday for a negotiating position in private industry. Hired in June, he was the only full time suburban school district negotiator in the Detroit area.

THE $15,000-a year position is included in this year's budget, and board President Kenneth Perrin said he thought the board would approve hiring a replacement.

"Labor negotiations take a great deal of time," he said. "First there is the negotiating and then the administration of the contract -- handling grievances and staff problems."

Labor negotiations were formerly handled by staff members who were paid about $3,000 for the extra duty last year.

Oswald said he hoped to have two of the three contracts settled before he left Friday.

SEVERAL BOARD members last week complained that they didn't really know what was going on in contract negotiations and supported a proposal by Dr. Mervyn Ross to form a board labor negotiations committee to keep informed on labor negotiations and problems and report to the rest of the board.

Several other board members objected to forming another board committee.

"It's the job of the administration to keep us informed on negotiations," said Kay Stirling.

"Sometimes we get ridiculous with these committees," said Ron Emmitt. "I expect this information to come through the superintendent and deputy superintendent. If it doesn't, maybe we should form a study committee to find out why."

ROGER ALLEN, head of the Farmington Education Association (FEA) said forming a labor negotiations committee was "an excellent idea."

"Salaries make up a great part of the budget and the board is doing a disservice to the community if it is not aware of what goes on in negotiations."

Discussion on the committee will continue at an open study session Tuesday, Sept. 26 and the matter will come before the board for action Tuesday, Oct. 3.

FARMINGTON

Capt. Margaret E. Schreiber, U.S.A.F., returned early last month from a year's tour of duty in Thailand. She visited several days with her father, Paul Schreiber of Oakland Avenue. Last week Mr. Schreiber drove the captain to her new assignment at Langley AFB at Hampton, Va.

The captain is a career officer and has had many fascinating experiences in her assignments, both in the United States and overseas.

Before returning to Farmington, Mr. Schreiber, accompanied by the captain, toured historic old Jamestown, restored Williamsburg and the Yorktown battlefield area, site of the decisive battle in the War for Independence in September 1781.

ON HIS return journey, Mr. Schreiber visited the family of his brother-in-law, Lt. Col. C.D. Jewell in Washington D.C., and his son , Richard and family in Pittsburgh. Richard is a nuclear engineer for Westinghouse Corp.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Houghton of Wilmarth enjoyed the summer at their Elk Rapids, property. The Houghtons have a lovely house trailer which they will use until their home is completed on their property. Paul has a cabin cruiser to give them a lot of enjoyment.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Strein of Battle Creek visited her sister and brother-inlaw, the Raymond Leaches of Orchard Lake Road, before leaving for a week at Las Vegas.

The Senior Citizens Social Club of Farmington had its first fall trip Sept. 14 for a smorgasbord at Walli's Supper Club in Flint.

FIFTY MEMBERS left by bus from the parking lot of First United Methodist Church at 10 a.m. and returned at 3:30 p.m.

The return trip was along a different route and the senior citizens noticed that the leaves are now changing to their fall colors. The trip was enjoyed by all.

Counseling Center Changes Hours

FARMINGTON

Harrison High School students who can't seem to fit seeing the school counselor into their schedules can take advantage of the new afternoon and evening hours beginning in October.

As of Wednesday, Oct. 4, one of Harrison's four counselors will be on duty between 2:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. and from 5:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. every Wednesday during the school year.

Counselor Jerry Sklare said students and their parents are invited to drop in at the counseling center during those hours to discuss career or college plans, or school or personal problems.

He said the counseling center has information on many colleges including what types of programs they specialize in, tuition rates, financial aid, and qualifications for admission.

During an average week last year, Sklare said he saw 40 different students (five of them came twice). Of the 45 contacts with students, 16 were for scheduling problems, nine for college information, six for personal problems, six for general information, four for classroom adjustment problems and one for occupational information.
