

Couple Living In Inkster

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sobolewski are making their home in Inkster following their recent wedding in Faith Baptist Church, Dearborn Heights.

Mrs. Sobolewski is the former Nancy Jane Hodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Hodge of Herbert Avenue, Westland, Mr. and Mrs. John Sobolewski of Dearborn Heights are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Donald Gregory officiated for the double-ring ceremony, and the bride's father gave her in marriage.

She wore a gown of white rosepoint lace over organza and chiffon and a bouffant veil held by a lace and crystal headpiece. Her flowers were white carnations and green spider mums and ivy.

PEGGY AKERS was honor attendant and the bridesmaids were Pat Czarnota, Julie Hodge and Pat Sobolewski. Assisting the bridegroom were Joseph Czarnota as best man and James Woods and Robert Hodge as ushers. Kevin Krzeszowski was ring bearer.

The reception was held in the Dearborn Heights VFW

Hall and the couple went to the Upper Peninsula for a one-week honeymoon.

THE NEW Mrs. Sobolewski graduated in 1970 from John Glenn High School and in 1971 from Cleveland State Com-

Pointing out that "there is no other society where mothers and small children spend as much time in each other's exclusive society as in the United States today," Mrs. Seaman said, "Not only is this hard on mothers, but it's even harder on the children."

"There is too much pressure on a child to be his mother's only reason for living... Part-time jobs may be answer for the sake of the mental health of the children."

"Can we change our patterns of living which are based on Mrs. Seaman believes that it can be done, that we are in fact in a period of very rapid change. "In 25 years, Chinese women have achieved greater equality than we have," she said.

"Men's laughter reflects a state of self-consciousness as we face change... Males of this generation are going to have to go through a transitional period, but in the long run, it is better for them. They can develop their own potential and be freed from "emotional suppression, which research has shown can cause physical (heart attacks) as well as emotional problems. "If we are to make persons of ourselves, we need honest information, not patriarchal myths," she said. And she left with her friends at Schoolcraft a list of 35 recent books and articles which have helped her arrive at the conclusion that there is evidence with which to explode them.

Rights Topic

A representative of the American Civil Liberties Union will speak on the rights of children and foster parents at the Nov. 20 meeting of Foster Parents for Progress at 7:30 p.m. in the Livonia Senior Citizens building, Farmington Road south of Five Mile. All foster families may attend.

Tricia Smith Wed To Robert Keller

Tricia Lynn Smith and Robert E. Keller III exchanged nuptial vows in a ceremony Saturday, Oct. 28, in Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church of Northville.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Smith of Northville, formerly of Livonia. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Billie Bechtel of Toledo and Robert E. Keller Jr. of Kansas.

The bridegroom placed on the bride's finger the ring that had been worn by her grandmother. During the ceremony officiated by the Rev. John Wyskiel, the bride gave long-stemmed red roses to her mother and to the bridegroom's mother.

GIVEN IN MARRIAGE by her father, the bride wore a traditional gown of chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls and featuring long sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt. Matching lace edged her cathedral-length mantilla, and she carried a cascade of white sweetheart roses with stephanotis and baby's breath and a lavender orchid in the center.

Ann Rayman of Lima, Ohio, the maid of honor, wore a Victorian gown of violet silk lined with a venetian lace bib and a white picture hat with violet ribbons.

Bridesmaids Bonnie Woodard and Sue List of Northville wore similar gowns with violet picture hats. All carried purple carnations and white lily mums in cascade arrangements.

LENORE KELLER of Toledo, the bridegroom's sister, and Shelly Patrick of Toledo, the bride's cousin, were junior bridesmaids. They wore violet dresses with violet bows in their hair and carried small baskets of carnations and mums.

Robert Truscinski of Toledo was best man and the ushers were Gary Knapf of Toledo, Craig Bechtel of Toledo, brother of the bridegroom, and Thomas Smith of Northville, the bride's brother.

A DINNER reception for 160 in Holiday Inn of Farmington followed the ceremony, and the newlyweds went to Canada for their honeymoon.

They will live in Toledo. The new Mrs. Keller is a senior in the Mercy School of Nursing there and an officer candidate hospital nurse in the U.S. Navy Nurse Corps. Her husband will graduate in December from the University of Toledo and plans to continue his education in mortuary science.

When was the last time somebody helped you buy carpeting instead of trying to sell you some?

Somewhere along the line, the meaning of "Can I help you?" got changed to "Can I sell you something?" Somewhere, in the rush to mass merchandising, the word "customers" became "floor traffic."

And the word "volume" became law. It's happened in every business. Ours included. But one thing hasn't changed. You can only treat people like cattle once. Because it's a pretty sure bet they won't be back. That is why we haven't changed. We still rely mainly on repeat customers. As a matter of fact, that's where more than 2/3 of our business comes from.

You don't flash a smile and whip out an order pad on people like that. You talk to them. Get to know what they're like. What their home is like. Go out with a carload of samples, if need be. You take the time to know their needs. Whether it takes 10 minutes or 4 hours.

You don't carry junk. You don't carry seconds. You inspect every single inch of carpet before you deliver it. So you can stand behind it.

And above all, you don't give sales pitches. You give advice. Good sound, professional advice. No hard sell.

A lot of other "experts" say we miss a lot of sales like that. Maybe. But if somebody wants to look around a little more, we're all for letting him. The way we figure, after he's done a little comparing, he'll be back.
