

UNITARIANS from the Farmington Unitarian Church tore down a 133-year-old farm house on church property on Halstead north of Grand River with help from 40 volunteers recently. The old house, in the Harley Gibson family from the time it was built in 1839 nearly to the time it was torn down, has been vacant for several years. (Evert photo)

THREE LEADERS of Farmington's Toys for Tots campaign show some of the merchandise already collected to help make Christmas a happy time for needy children of the area. Beaming over a race set (left) is Chuck Schulkins who has been active in Toys for Tots for many years. Beside him, clutching an armload of Christmas stockings, is Joe Heyman, youth activity chairman this year. Lester Moss (right), chairman of this year's drive, holds a pile of model car sets.

Bacon Honored

FARMINGTON Ronald F. Bacon of Farmington, a Michigan Technological University senior, has been awarded the Estwing hammer award as the outstanding student in field geology in 1972.

Bacon, 3189 Kingswood Lane. He was awarded the honor at the MTU department of geology and geological engineering student-faculty meeting.

Tireless Mark

Even though Wayne State University's football team lost its 1972 home game with Ferris State, the game marked the Tartars' 60th consecutive tieless contest, a school record.

The Estwing Co. each year awards a hammer to the brightest student in field geology.

Bacon, who is majoring in geological engineering, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira F.

Plays Begin At Center

FARMINGTON Ceci Orman's Farmington Community Center dramatics class will present two children's plays at the center on Saturday, Dec. 9. Performances will begin at 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents.

are "The Little Princess," by Frances Burnett and "Christmas Every Day" by William Howell. Casts are composed of elementary school children. Those who attend may be any age, but children under five must be accompanied by an adult or an older child.
