Parsing the Word "That." "Speaking of grammar," said a schoolteacher, "it is possible, you know, to form a sentence which contains five consecutive 'that's.' For instance, 'He said that that that that that man referred to is an adjective.' It takes some pretty clear thinking on the part of my youngsters to solve the problem and parse each word, but usually some of them do it. The first that is a conjunction, the second is an adjective, the third is a noun, the fourth a conjunction and the fifth an adjective. Is it perfectly plain to you?"

The Feast of Dolls.
The feast of the dolls is the quaintest of all the little Japanese girls' festivals. In the storehouse, where are kept all the family treasures, there are boxes filled with dolls which have come down from the grandmothers and great-grandmothers. Each new bride takes her dolls when she goes to her father-in-law's house, and she keeps the feast each year till her eldest daughter is old enough to take it up.

Of Boston Coinage.
At a church fair recently a solemn looking elderly gentleman remarked to a young man, "I never attend a church fair like this without thinking of the money changers in the temple."

"I don't see the resemblance, sir," replied the young man. "There's no money changing here. Whatever you give 'em they keep."—Boston Transcript.

Satisfied With What He Had.
"I have invented a typewriter that you can carry in your coat pocket. May I show it to you?"
"No. I have a typewriter that I carry in my limousine and I'm satisfied."—Chicago Record-Herald.

June Meeting of Guild

Farmington Guild met and was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Pierce on last Monday evening at eight o'clock, at which hour the meeting was called to order by the president.

Owing to the warm weather the meeting was held on the spacious and shady lawn, where routine business was transacted and future arrangements made. A motion to discontinue summer meetings was withdrawn after discussion and finding that summer meetings had always proven more or less attractive and interesting.

Following the business meeting the members adjourned to the house, where a program of games etc., had been arranged, followed by the serving of refreshments on the lawn.

The place of the next meeting has not as yet been selected, but a committee appointed and the usual meeting takes place one month hence.

The committee in charge of this month's meeting was composed of Misses Sallie Pickett and Edith Ringle and Messrs. Edgar Pierce and Allan Prindle.

M. E. Church Notes

By the Pastor, Rev. C. S. Lee
Next Sunday Rev. G. E. Gullen will supply the pulpit in the morning and in the evening he will preach the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the high school.

Remember the Sunday school at the close of the morning service.

The Epworth League will meet at 6:15 p. m., before the evening service. Good leader and fine singing.

On Sunday week the pastor will be back to continue the morning series of topics on the "Common Series of Life." The subject of "The Drunkard" will be handled with unglorified hands.

Children's Day will be celebrated at the evening service and our children will do their best to entertain you with little sermonettes. Come out and hear them.

Less Than 100 Sold

Tag day was not all that might have been desired or anticipated in Farmington last Saturday, less than one hundred tags being sold, but considering the fact that the tag sale was not in any manner pushed, the showing cannot be considered poor.

In all of the towns of the county the tags were on sale, beneficial to Oakland county hospital, and were disposed of by the young ladies, generally. It just happened that this precise Saturday was an off day in Farmington, and that most of the young ladies who would interest themselves in the work were out of town.

The tags were on sale therefore at the Owen House, the postoffice and the E. C. Grace store, the sale netting $9.36, or approximately 10c per tag. Under different circumstances it is certain that Farmington would have held her own with other towns, as the cause is a worthy one.

Watch for date of the strawberry and ice cream festival to be given soon by the Ladies' Aid.

The Abecedarians.

The Abecedarians were a sect of German Anabaptists who arose in the sixteenth century. They despised all learning, regarding it as a hindrance to religion and looking even upon the "A B C" with contempt. Their design was the bringing of the world to the rule of righteousness by the gradual destruction of all then existent governments.

Unconcerned.

An incident illustrating the placidity, if so it may be called, of the Duke of Wellington has reference to a naval officer, a near connection of the duke. The ship which this officer commanded was lost, and he himself was drowned. When the news was communicated to the duke he merely exclaimed, "That's the second ship he has lost!"
