

Michigan National Corporation

announces the change of the names of four of its five member banks to more accurately reflect their affiliation with Michigan's largest statewide multi-bank holding company.

- Michigan Bank, N.A. has changed its name to Michigan National Bank of Detroit.
- Livonia National Bank has changed its name to Michigan National Bank, West Metro.
- Troy National Bank has changed its name to Michigan National Bank, North Metro.
- Oakland National Bank has changed its name to Michigan National Bank, Oakland.
- In Lansing, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Lansing.
- In Grand Rapids, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Grand Rapids.
- In Flint, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Flint.
- In Battle Creek, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Battle Creek.
- In Saginaw, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Saginaw.
- In Port Huron, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Port Huron.
- In Marshall, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Marshall.
- In Charlotte, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Charlotte.
- In Grand Ledge, Michigan National Bank will be known as Michigan National Bank of Grand Ledge.

Michigan National Corporation and its member banks cover an area that includes 80% of the population of the state. Its members operate 83 offices in 26 Michigan communities. It has combined assets of 2.6 billion dollars. In a very real sense, it is banking that is building Michigan." All of Michigan.

It provides the knowledge and the resources to help business and industry grow and prosper.

But banking, like any other human endeavor, is based on a person-to-person relationship. And while we have changed the names of some of our member banks, we have not changed the basic philosophy which has guided these banks over the years:

To serve all our customers, large and small, with the same interest and dedication we did when we first opened our doors for business.

For we realize full well that we owe whatever success we have achieved to the people who have given us the opportunity to serve them.

All banks member F.D.I.C.

Michigan National Corporation

"THE SATURDAY BANKS THAT ARE BUILDING ALL OF MICHIGAN"