

Kathryn Linahan Is Recent Bride

Kathryn Susan Linahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Linahan of Kendallwood Avenue, Farmington, wore her mother's wedding gown when she exchanged nuptial vows with Charles Henry Van Hoey.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Dolores Van Hoey of West Bloomfield. The ceremony took place in St. Fabian Catholic Church in Farmington. The bride's father gave her in marriage. Her gown was candlelight satin made in an early renaissance design and featured long sleeves and lace and beading trim. A beaded laurel wreath held her floor-length veil, and she carried a nosegay of white carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Sheehan-Haldy Vows Spoken

Twins Kathleen and Jimmy Ryan were flower girl and ring bearer. The bride's attendants wore moss-green velvet jermies over lime chiffon renaissance gowns and matching lace caps. Their nosegays contained yellow mums and daisies.

They wore princess gowns of burgundy velvet with pink georgette crepe and carried baskets of baby's breath, pink carnations, roses and star flowers.
