Gumption on the Farm.
It gets to be an old story to read every year about the importance of buying good seed; and yet, thousands of men think they are saving money by buying poor seed. It is a great mistake. Inferior seed almost always has weed seed in it. It costs to be clean good seed, and that is one reason why it is so high in price, but we had better pay a little more than to have our farms all grown up to weeds. The best is none too good.
An hour of hard work setting a stone out of the public road is well spent, even if nobody thanks you for it.
Talk over your plans with your wife as you sit around the evening fire. You will be surprised to find how sound her advice is.
For a farm covering good barnyard manure is much better than a mortgage; and judiciously applied the former will speedily remove the latter.

Here it is February and in almost no time the rush of spring work will be upon us. We had better get ready for it by doing all the odd jobs we can now.
Far above the production of wheat and corn and hay and potatoes is the growth and cultivation of character; for, after all, this is the main purpose of life.
A mole may never be known to kick and yet around his hole is no place for small children; for when the explosion comes they won't mend the pieces, nor clubs better the mole.
If you know a good thing tell your neighbor about it. It will help him about his work, and it surely can't do you any harm. Bottled-up goodness soon turns sour and spoils.
See to it that your straw and cover stacks are not eaten from beneath, so the March winds will not blow them over on the stock. I have a neighbor who lost nine sheep at one time, and two a week later in this way.
Smokehouse at small cost. Needing a smokehouse I boarded up a small corner in an outbuilding fitted in a door hung it by leather hinges, and I can shovele to the smokehouse. Result: Cook smoke little, danger of setting building on fire, and a chunk of green hickory will smoke all winter. From February Farm Journal.

WASTING COAL.
Prof. Henry E. Armstrong of the London Central Technical college, in an address recently, sounded a warning against the wasteful methods now in use in connection with the consumption of coal. "No comment is provoked," he said, "by the fact that even, counts such as the Lusitania and the Marytonia, no longer daily with some thousands or more tons of coal upon their voyages across the Atlantic. Such extravagance is a good in as a great engineering achievement, and not mathematized as it should be if aware in any way mindful of the increase of poverty."
MAN'S DAILY FIGHT.
Modern life, says a recent medical writer, is quite as destructive as war in killing off men. The increased death rate among business men in our cities has generally been variously attributed to overeating, feeding, exposure to wet or nervous strain and so on. These are probably no more potent today than they have always been. The death rate among men has always been higher than with the other sex, but in the present day city life seems to be replacing war as a destroyer, doubtless because of its unwholesome environment.

PRETTY NAMES FOR GIRLS.
Quaint and unusual Christian names were a short time ago a fad at smart society abroad and the old-fashioned flower garden was ransacked in order to provide girl babies with unusual cognomens. The craze reached its height in diamond jubilee year, and it was then that Lady Angela Forbes, the youngest of that beautiful group of sisters headed by Lady Warwick, christened her eldest child Marigold. Five years later followed another little daughter, on whom was bestowed the noble and Roman name of Flavia.
