Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"Your Vote and Influence Will be Appreciated."

The people of this vicinity, regardless of party affiliation, are keenly interested in Dan's success, not only on account of his friendship but also for his qualifications for this office. Mr. McGaffey has utilized his spare hours and evenings for the last five or six years in the study of law, making a special study on real estate law and land titles, which law greatly concerns the office of register of deeds. Redford News

George Churches has purchased a new Ford touring car through Roy H. Burgess, the agent.

If you are loyal to Redford, vote for a Redford man, A. L. Lamp here for the legislature.

Rev. W. G. Evans left for Battle Creek on Tuesday where he is attending the Presbyterian Tyuoid for the state of Michigan and which convenes in that city.

After sinking their drills only a few feet further in the rock, the well drillers met with an accident that has laid the work up for a few days, while repairs were awaited from Toledo.

The work of plastering the new school building has been going along at a rapid rate. The Full ford Bros have a large force at work and are pushing it along as fast as possible.

A new telephone directory is being printed for Redford and the village will no longer be in the Detroit directory. Redford and Dearborn will be combined in one directory.

J. E. C. Altrock of Detroit, who owns a couple of acre lots on the Redford gardens made arrangements this week to have the property improved in anticipation of the early construction of a house on the property.

The new bridge over the Rouge just west of the Village is nearly completed so far as the bridge proper is concerned and the approaches are now being constructed. It will be a great relief to the teamsters and auto drivers when the work is finally finished. The temporary road laid around the work is in very bad condition since the fall rains set in.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Dr. Holt of Philadelphia will preach at the Presbyterian church. He represents the Detroit Presbytery in the educational campaign they are undertaking in the interest of the larger work of the General Assembly in relation to the general boards of the church. The service commences at 7 o'clock.

A quiet marriage was solemnized on Saturday evening, October 10, when Miss Louise Glave, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glave of Bay City, was united in marriage to Fred Hantz, ceremony being performed by Rev. Thomas Anderson at the Presbyterian parsonage. A wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Hantz are at home to their friends at 1118 Chelsea Ave Lansing, Mich.

Somewhere along in the night or the small hours of the morning the new milk peddlar started on his rounds last Monday and everybody had their supply for breakfast. The effect of that fine new wagon was lost for it was scarcely daylight when the trip was ended. Mr. Burt seems to be well pleased with the success that attended the startling of his business and tells the Record that new customers are be added every day.

Adjourned Session of Council

The president, clerk and all trustees except Mr Vrooman were present at the adjourned session of the village council which was held Tuesday night.

Among other things an ordinance licensing and regulating pool rooms and bowling alleys was passed, the full text of which is printed in this paper. The license is fixed at $5 per table or alley and the hours from 6 a. m to 11, p. m. They are prohibited from being open on Sundays.

It was voted to borrow sufficient funds to meet the current expenses of the village as the building of sidewalk has exhausted the amount in the treasury.

A bill of the D. U. R. for $19.21 for freight charges on slag was allowed.

Another meeting will be held next Tuesday night.—Record.

HISTORY OF VISITING CARD

Became Popular in Europe in Time of Louis XIV and at One Period Was Ornamental.

Some authorities hold that the origin of the visiting card lay in the circumstance that when Pericles first laid siege to the heart of Aspasia he sent her a bouquet to which, fearful lest she might not guess from whom the compliment proceeded, he caused to be attached a strip of wood wherein his name was cut.

According to Bertarelli, who, among others, had been at much pains to compile the history of the card, it is difficult to say whether it was first used in Greece or in China. However that may be, it seems to be an ascertained fact that the visiting card did not really obtain to any extent in Europe until the time of Louis XIV. It crossed the Pyrenees with Philip of Anjou when he was installed in the palace at Madrid, and Louis himself was the cause of its being introduced into the Netherlands.

Then it was adopted in Italy, where it was subjected to much elaboration. First, the cards showed a modest border of flowers or leaves; then appeared landscapes, bits of architecture, allegories, etc. Finally came scenes of rural life, alternating with views of monuments and towns. The name was printed on the picture of a wall, a tree or a fountain.

A view of the Adriatic figured on the card of Count Alexandre Papoli, while the Franco family favored a large stone guarded by two dogs, with the amphitheater of Verona in the background.

NO ROOM FOR THE WHINER

World Has Little Use for Man Who Looks Habitually Through Eyes of Gloom.

He who thinks the world is full of good people and kindly blessings is much richer than he who thinks the contrary. Each man's imagination largely peoples the world for himself. Some live in a world peopled with princes of the royal blood; some in a world of paupers and privation. You have your choice.

This is a big, busy world. It cares precious little what you think of it, or what faults or troubles you find in it. It is a choice that concerns yourself more than all others combined, whether you grouch in the gloom, the companion of hateful goblins, or stride in the sunshine, seeing smiles and catching shreds of song.

Men and women in God's image were not made as whining, groveling beings. They were made to stand erect, mentally as well as physically; to labor well and joyously; to take the gifts of Providence, whether they be joy or sorrow, and bear them cheerfully and with courage; to add ever something to the world's store of happiness, if it be only a smile.

Look up! See how flooded with sunshine this beautiful world is when faced with smiling eyes.

If you would win anything, do anything, be anything, don't whine.—Christian Herald.

Using Dogs in War.

Considering how obviously fitted dogs are for police work and certain services in war it is curious that more use has not been made of them in modern times.

Of course, now that hand-to-hand fighting is to all intents and purposes extinct, dogs are no longer formidable in war, but for sentry duty or the finding of wounded on the battlefield, dogs—as was shown during the Russo-Japanese war—can be of great service.

The ancients employed dogs extensively as sentries. So also did the Emperor Charles V and Philip, king of Spain, while Napoleon hired Marmont to fasten dogs to stakes around the walls of Alexandria to keep guard.

Dog senses are very much more acute than those of human beings—especially the senses of scent and hearing, which, of course, are invaluable for police work.

National Anthem Naturally.

The organist was not lacking in patriotism, yet rebelled when asked to play "The Star-Spangled Banner" at a wedding.

"It is not appropriate," he said.

"Ain't it?" said the bride's father. "Cut all the rest of the program, if you want to, but stick to that. After me having the hardest kind of a fight to keep Belle's mother from marrying her off to a foreigner! Between Belle and me we won out for an American, and if this ain't the time for the 'Star-Spangled Banner,' I'd like to know when that time is."

Did Seem Bad.

Jeems McTavish was a well-known gardener of Peebles, and sometimes he imbibed too freely. It was on one or these occasions that he wandered into the kirkyard one night and fell asleep with his back against a tombstone. At sunrise a coaching party came down the lane. The horn ringing loud and clear awoke McTavish. Half asleep and still somewhat muddled, he started up and glanced about. "Th' judgment morn' and I'm th' only mon that's up!" he exclaimed. "This disna speak weel for Peebles."

Shield's Bright Side.

"Nuwedd says he has no appetite."

"Lucky dog! His wife does her own cooking and more appetite would only mean for him more dyspepsia."
