MICHIGAN NEWS

NORTHVILLE MAN HELD IN ENGLAND AS AUSTRIAN SPY

Northville, Mich.—Charles Bloom, manager of the Michigan Fire & Marine Insurance Co., of Detroit, received a cablegram today from Joe Tabuski, a former employe, saying he had been arrested as a spy in England and intimating that aid be given him.

Tabuski came to Northville some years ago and entered the high school. He was an Austrian Pole and without funds. In order to pay his way he went to work for Mr. Bloom, caring for his furnace and doing other work for various people here. It was Tabuski's hope to get an education and business and then go back and work for the benefit of his country men.

He made many friends here by his brilliant work in school and finally, when he graduated, went to Detroit, where he began the study of medicine. He received his first and second papers and when war, broke out he enlisted in the first Canadian contingent as a hospital aid and was sent to Salisbury, England.

From there he wrote that he was getting along splendidly and felt that even he would be able to do much good. The next thing his friends heard, was that he had been arrested as an Austrian spy. Friends here are taking the matter up with the state department with the hope that he can be helped out of his trouble.

At first it was planned to place Lakefield and the western part of Fremont, an adjoining township, under quarantine.

A CAMPING STORE

Of interest to the camper and sportsman is the newly opened store in Detroit at 199 Jefferson Avenue E, for camping goods only. This store has been opened by J. T. Farrelly, who has been in the service of Abercrombie, the well-known camp outfitter and tent maker in New York City.

"In acting as Michigan agent for Abercrombie's tents and camping outfits," says J. T. Farrelly, the proprietor of the camping store. "There is one rule we will always follow, this being that everything we sell will be of practical value, of the best material, and at a moderate price."

In pursuance of this idea the store shows garments made from the wool of the Peruvian Llama, light, soft, glossy, and warmer than sheep's wool. Also imported Austrian wools, and Camel's Hair cloths; all to keep the camper warm and still stand rough usage without adding unnecessary weight to equipment.

Waterproof tents weighing two and three pounds, built of finest Egyptian Cotton, strong, light as a feather, and absolutely waterproof; Sleeping Bags and Angora Sleeping Suits; Blankets of the purest wool to give the greatest heat without adding weight; hand-made to measure waterproof boots for both men and women, very strong and light.

These things and many more articles of highest quality make this store an addition of great value to hunters, trappers, campers and sport men.

COLOMBIAN ETIQUET.

A Tedious Performance, And Takes A Good Deal Of Time.

It was the third or fourth day out from Santa Maria, Colombia, and early in the morning, when one of the South American passengers came on deck. Another South American arose from his deck chair, extended his hand and as the men shook hands inquired after the health of the newcomer, his wife and his children.

As they had parted company only about eight hours before in the smoking room, this seemed like unnecessary courtesy. The observer noticed that this happened in the case of all the Colombians on board, so he asked one man about it.

"It is the custom of the country," said he. "On the occasion of meeting a person for the first time each day it is etiquet to shake hands and to make inquiries about the health of the person so greeted and of his relatives. It would not be considered polite to do otherwise."

Continuing, this man told of taking a walk one day in Bogota with a merchant of the place. They were bent on business and were to cover a distance that might be made rather easily in 10 minutes. Because of the necessary stops to make the customary inquiries and to shake hands with friends of the merchant, the trip tok nearly an hour.

PENALTIES OF KISSING.

Not So Severe Now As In The Puritan Days Of New England.

A man at Brinsley has been fined one pound for kissing a lady in the street. In the New England of the seventeenth century he would have been much more severely dealt with. Mrs. Earle, in her book on Puritan New England, recalls the case of Captain Kemble, of Boston, who in 1656 was "set for two hours in the public stocks for his 'lewd and unseemly behavior,' which consisted in kissing his wife publicly on the Sabbath day, upon the doorstep of his house when he had just returned from an absence of three years."

Attempts have been made to stop kissing in fact as well as in the fiction I have recorded. In Iceland the old-time laws were very severe in this regard. Banishment was the penalty for kissing another man's wife, with or without her consent, and the same punishment followed on kissing an unmarried woman against her will. Even when kissing had the recipient's sanction the penalty was a fine for each offense. But there must have been times, in winter, when banishment from Iceland seemed cheap at the price of a snatched kiss!—London Chronicle.

ALL WRONG

The Mistake is Made by Many Citizens.

Look for the cause of backache. To be cured you must know the cause.

If it's weak kidneys.

You must set the kidneys working right.

This statement shows you how.

W. J. Lewis, Bell River Ave., Marine City, Mich., says: "I was never troubled very much by kidney complaint until last spring when I was taken with a severe attack of backache. I was in very bad shape and was unable to work. I heard considerable about Doan's Kidney Pills, an dthinking they might relieve me, I got a box. The first few doses benefited me and before I had used one box, the backache left. In five days I was in good shape and have been free from backache ever since."

Confirmed Proof.

On February 8, 1913, Mr. Lewis said: "I am always glad to speak in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, because I know they are the best of kidney remedies. I willingly confirm the endorsement I gave some time ago."
