Merry Christmas

With the amount of snow that has fallen during the past few days, Farmington and this section of Michigan is assured of a good old-fashioned "white Christmas", and since the coming of the snow, the Christmas spirit seems to have more than asserted itself, and Farmington people have been busily engaged in preparing their individual Christmas celebrations, including shopping, mailing, and giving of presents, and the preparations for the big Christmas dinner.

This should indeed be a Merry Christmas in this locality, with the abundant crops, and other evidences of natural prosperity which invariably follow in the wake of those seasons when the farmers have had more than average prosperity, and there will be very few, if any homes in Farmington Township on this Christmas day of 1914 that will not be able to enjoy, at least some of the holiday festivities.

And with all of these evidences of happiness, contentment, prosperity, and the spirit of the day in general, in mind, the editor of The Enterprise wishes to take advantage of the occasion by wishing each and every one of its readers a merry, merry Christmas. May it be the happiest ever, for you and yours, and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

PLANT A CHRISTMAS TREE.

A correspondent of the Cleveland Plain Dealer offers a timely and pertinent idea that should commend itself to many readers. It refers to the use of Christmas trees after the day's festivities are over.

In explanation of her plan she offers the following clipping from Good Housekeeping:
"An eastern city carried out an idea last year that might well be imitated by any progressive organization of women. After New Year's wagon went from house to house to collect all the Christmas trees. These were taken to the public squares. Sharpened on the ends, they were thrust into the ground in artistic groups and clumps of varying heights. In some cases they act as wind shields for the growing shrubs and evergreens. In every case, though but temporary tenants, they make attractive, restful beauty spots for the eye. Compare this with the fate of Christmas trees in your neighborhood. After short week of tinseled splendor they are often left in the alleyways or litter up the back yard for weeks."

This interesting question is added:
"Certainly the Christmas trees in the southwest corner of the square are a great improvement to it, and no one who sees them can help wishing that they might grow there all the year round. They talk of improving this corner. Why not plant some little evergreen trees?"
Worth considering, isn't it?

Immigrants and Literacy. Scandinavians lead the world in point of literacy. Among every twenty German immigrants over fourteen years old is found one who can read. Of immigrants from other nations it is estimated there is found an illiterate among every twenty-three Dutch, thirty-eight Irish, fifty-two Welsh, fifty-nine Bohemians, seventy-seven Finns, 100 English and 143 Scottish, but the proportion among those who come from Scandinavia is one in 250. Among the Lithuanian immigrants and those from southern Italy half of them read no language—Argonaut.

One Letter Names.

O is a village of France. In the commune of Merveux, at a distance of fifteen kilometers from Argentan, itself at a distance of thirty-five kilometers from Alencon. This Norman hamlet has at last accounts twenty-three inhabitants and the proud memory of the extinct marquise of O, which dates back to the crusades. The last marquis, superintendent of the finances of Henri III, lived a squibbiff and died a pauper. Another instance of single letter geography is Y, the arm of the sea which penetrates the Netherlands.

A Wonderful Parrot.

The world's record parrot is owned by Baron Alfred de Rothschild, and he paid for it a record sum. She sings with effect quite a number of songs in a voice like a banjo's twang. She speaks 200 words of German, can answer reasonable queries, smartly rebukes those who ask silly ones and is credited to remind her interlocutors that her full title is "Laura from Africa, please."

Breathe Well and Keep Well. To breathe well helps to keep well. To live longer and better make it a habit to take some breathing exercise each day. Are you aware that ordinarily you use only one-fourth of your lung space? Is it any wonder that diseases of the respiratory tract are contracted so easily?
