4th Trainload of Buick Cars

There is no question but that business in general is at least normal if the movement of automobiles by train had is any criterion.

Jan. 20th the fourth trainload of automobiles left the Buick factories. There were 87 of them valued at approximately $19,000. Buying Buicks by the trainload is becoming a habit with Buick distributors and the Hokanson Auto Co. was one of the first to get the habit.

Indications at present are that "Trainload" Collins, General Sales Manager, Buick Motor Company knew what he was talking about several months ago when he said, "I predict that there will be the greatest shortage of automobiles in the spring of 1915 that this country has ever seen."

Orders for 15 trainloads in addition to the four already shipped are to be filled by the Buick Motor Company and trainloads will leave the factory every few days from now on. Last year the Buick Motor Company was all sold out by March 15, and there is every reason to believe the 1915 output will be sold at an earlier date this year.

A BRIDE FROM THE TOMB.

Odd Romance of Benedello Marcollo, the Venetian Composer.

Benedello Marcollo, one of the most famous Venetian composers, fell in love with a beautiful girl named Leonora Manfredi, who married Paolo Seranzo, a Venetian noble. She died a short time after her marriage, a victim to the harsh and jealous treatment of her husband.

Her body was laid out in state in one of the churches, and her lover actually succeeded in stealing the corpse and conveying it to a ruined crypt in one of the islands, and here he sat day and night by his lost love, singing and playing to her, as though by the force of his art he could recall her to life.

Leonora had a twin sister, Ellade, who was so like her that her closest friends could scarcely distinguish them. One day Ellade heard a singer in a gondola singing so exquisitely that she thought of the gondolier in the deserted island, and there she learned later the fate of her sister's corpse and the identity of Marcollo. Aided by a servant, Ellade substituted herself for her sister's body, and when Marcollo returned and called Leonora to awake he did not ask in vain for apparently she rose alive from the coffin. Marcollo when he found out the delusion was quite shocked and married Ellade, but his happiness was short lived, as he died a few years afterward.—London Telegraph.

Damp Room Test.

To ascertain whether a room is damp or not place a weighed quantity of fresh lime in an open vessel in the room and observe it there for twenty-four hours, carefully closing the windows and doors. At the end of the twenty-four hours reweigh the lime, and if the increase exceeds 1 per cent of the original weight it is not safe to live in the room.

THE COUNTY FAIR

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union

The farmer gets more out of the fair than anyone else. The fair to a city man is an entertainment; to a farmer it is education. Let us take a stroll through the fair grounds and linger a moment at a few of the points of greatest interest. We will first visit the mechanical department and hold communion with the world's greatest inventors.

You are attending a congress of the mental giants in mechanical science of all ages. They are addressing us in tongues of iron and steel and in language mute and powerful tell us how to carry the fate of our progress. The inventive geniuses are the most valuable farm hands we have and they perform an enduring service to mankind. We can all help others for ...a brief period while we live, but it takes a master mind to tower into the realm of science and to a tower of progress that will illuminate the pathway of civilization for future generations. The men who gave us the sickle, the binder, the cotton gin and hundreds of other valuable inventions work in every day of our lives and will continue their labors as long as time. Their bright intellects have conquered death and they will live and serve mankind on and on forever, without money and without price. They have shown us how grand and noble it is to work for others; they have also taught us lessons in economy and efficiency, how to make one hour do the work of two of money, have lengthened our lives, multiplied our opportunities and taken toll of the back of humanity.

They are the most practical men the world ever produced. Their inventions have stood the acid test of utility and efficiency. Like all useful men, they do not seek publicity, yet millions of machines sing their praises from every harvest field on earth and as many plows turn the earth and applaud their marvellous achievements.

FARMER RADFORD ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

The home is the greatest contribution of women to the world, and the hearthstone is her throne. Our social structure is built around her, and social righteousness is in her charge. Her beautiful life lights the skies of hope and her refinement is the charm of twentieth century civilization. Her graces and her power are the cumulative products of generations of patient conquest, and her crown of exalted womanhood is jeweled with the wisdom of saintly mothers. She has been a great factor in the glory of our country, and her noble achievements should not be marred by her illowid influence blighted by the coarse duties of citizenship. American chivalry should never permit her to bear the burdens of defending and maintaining government, but should preserve her unscathed from the allied influences of politics, and protect her from the weighty responsibilities of the sordid affairs of life that will crush her ideals and lower her standards. The motherhood of the farm is our inspiration, she is the guardian of our domestic welfare and a guide to a higher life, but directing the affairs of government is not within woman's sphere, and political gossip would cause her to neglect the home, forget to mend our clothes and burn the biscuits.

RURAL SOCIAL CENTERS

We need social centers where our young people can be entertained, amused and instructed under the direction of cultured, clean and competent leadership, where aesthetic surroundings attend the love, for the beautiful, where art charges the atmosphere with inspiration and power, and through amusements instruct and brighten their lives.

To hold our young people on the farm we must make farm life more attractive as well as the business of farming more remunerative. The school house should be the social unit, properly equipped for nourishing and building character, so that the lives of our people can be properly directed and become supplied with the necessary elements of human thought and activity.

Education is a developing of the mind, not a stuffing of the memory. Digest what you read.

Old men have visions, young men have dreams. Successful farmers plow deep while sluggards sleep.

The growing of legumes will return soil depletion and greatly add to its power to produce.
