CHRISTMAS AT BRACEBRIDGE HALL HERE IS A DELIGHTFUL DE-SCRIPTION OF AN OLD E VGLISH CHRISTMAS CELE-BRATION, TAKEN FROM THE "SKETCH BOOK," WRIT-TEN NEARLY A HUNDRED YEARS AGO BY WASHINGTON

is a bigoted devotee of the old school, and prides himself upon keeping up something of old English hospitality.
He is a tolerable specimen of what you will rarely meet with nowadays in its purity, the old English country gentleman; for our men of fortune spend so much of their time in town, and fashion is carried so much into the country, that the strong rich peculiarities of ancient rural life are at most poilshed away.

Queer Dinner Bell.

I had finished my totlet and was lotter; g with Frank Bracebridge in the H. arry, when we heard a distinct thwa; ing sound, which he informed me will a signal for the serving up of the dimer. The sputies kept up old custom in Kitchen as well as ball; and the rolling-pin, struck upon the services of the cook, summoned the services to carry in the meats and fixings.

That Tiresome Parson.

The parson, however, whose mind was not haunted by such associations, and who was always more taken up with the text than the sentiment, objected to the Koonian's version of the carol, which he affirmed, was different from that sung at college. He went on, with the dry perseverance of a commentator, to give the college reading, accompanied by suddry annotation; addressing timeself at first to the company a term of the control o
