Somewhat Different.

"I have just finished reading an account of how they burned heretics at the stake in ancient times," said the moralizer. "Such barbarism would not be tolerated in this enlightened age." "No, indeed," rejoined the demoralizer. "The modern heretic is let off with a roast in the religious journals."

The Real Test.

"I don't see how that little Mrs. Grumpy can seem so well satisfied with her husband. He never kisses her or shows her any mark like that of affection." "Maybe not, but he gives her spending money without her ever having to ask for it."

It Would Seem So.

Old Skinner—Yes, I advertised for a handy man to work about the premises. I want a man who doesn't chew, smoke, drink or gamble. Applicant—And the wages? Old Skinner—Six dollars a week. Applicant—Huh! I guess you want a man that doesn't eat, either.

An Amateur.

"Polly—He doesn't know anything about the little niceties of paying attention to a girl. Polly—Why, I saw him trying your shoestring."

"Polly—Yes, but he tied it in a double knot so it couldn't come untied again.—Judge."

What He Was Thinking Of.

Mrs. Bacon—I am so glad to obtain absolute quiet. A Dutch scientist has had three rooms constructed, one inside another, and has created vacuums between the walls.

Mr. Bacon—Oh, well, every married man couldn't afford to go to that expense, dear.

NO GOAT MILK FOR HER.

"I got his goat."

"I don't see what good that does when we use cow's milk."

Dead Letters.

A legislative act, though fair. May not be for from strong. We pass a law with patient care, And then pass it along.

Still At It.

"The British militant suffragettes say they want to work like men for the government instead of smashing windows."

I see. They are going, instead, to smash traditions."

In Jail.

Lady Philanthropist—I am sure want, not crime, brought you here. Were you not pinched by poverty, my poor man?

Convict—No; I was pinched by a cop.

He Was Right.

"My doctor told me I would have to quit eating so much meat."

"Did you laugh him to scorn?" "I did at first, but when he sent in his bill I found he was right."

Christening a Motor Car.

"What kind of a car has Billings?" "I call it a serio-comic," replied Miss Cayenne. "You don't know whether it ought to make you laugh or feel sympathetic."

Have to Be Called For.

"Do you believe there is any truth in the saying that all things come to him who waits?" "I believe more things wait for him who comes."

Its New Rendering.

"Don't you hate to see a child come into the room with a dirty face?" "Yes, I believe in the old adage: Children should be clean, not covered."
