OCC Aids Grads In Finding Jobs

An office to help place community college graduates has been established at the Orchard Ridge campus of Oakland Community college in Farmington Hills.

Barbara Kabcenell of Orchard Lake will assist students in finding jobs. She has assisted graduates of the library technician program in finding jobs in her former position as a paraprofessional in the program.

but budget limitations prevented its establishment.

"We are pleased that a graduate service can be offered during the coming academic year to assist students in gaining full time employment in the tri-county area."

Representatives from business and industry can contact Miss Kabcenell at the campus if they are interested in interviewing graduates.

"The graduate placement office will be an extension of tasks that I have already been performing," she said. "We will be making contacts with the community businesses and industries in assisting graduates of the Orchard Ridge campus."

"Our main goal is to meet the community needs for technically-trained personnel by arranging appointments for Orchard Ridge graduates to interview with personnel offices."

She will work with graduates from all Orchard Ridge two-year programs including data processing, computer programming, commercial art, library technician, food service technology, accounting and executive secretary.
