Heaney-Sundquist FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

In addition to the very exacting demands of the art of embalming, the professional services of the funeral director are of major importance. He must be a competent executive and administrator, able to handle all situations, amid extreme mental and emotional chaos. He must always be sympathetic, understanding, capable and thorough, to resolve any confused situation into one of calm and reassurance.

Respectfully,
Halster E. Sundquist

Letter To The Editor

Big Signs Protested

EDITOR:
 Wilbur Purdy, a seeker of public confidence for election to councilman in the city of Farmington, seems to feel that visual pollution to achieve that goal will somehow escape the wrath of the citizens.

At a time in our society when ecological pollution of any kind is foremost in the minds of thinking people, Purdy asks the voters to elect the very person who has chosen to despoil our public ways and fine residential areas with his very large and unattractive campaign signs.

Having lived in Farmington since childhood, I know many good and conscientious councilmen have been elected without the aid of such vulgar displays of useless signs. Should this continue and set a precedent it would be intolerable for all concerned.

Our community could become a city of signs, as are some of Farmington's sister cities during and after election.

If Purdy has anything constructive to say, he surely can say them in ways less offensive to all.

Many of us in Farmington who plan to urge Purdy's defeat, certainly hope voters will think twice about electing a man, who by this very action, declares himself unfit to lead this community, a community much interested in keeping Farmington Beautiful.
