What can

Coordinating the date for wedding and reception, ordering invitations, having gown fittings, ordering flowers—the checklist for wedding preparations is long.

Often forgotten in the rush to make sure that everything will be just right are the gifts for the bridal attendants and groomsmen.

The careful thought which most couples want to give in choosing a suitable memento of the occasion often has to be forsaken in the interest of the last-minute rush.

* * *

MANY GIRLS are disappointed when they learn a week or two before the wedding that the gift they would like to give will take four to six weeks to arrive.

They must then decide on an alternative—often something that they are not really satisfied with.

To avoid this, area salespersons urge brides to begin thinking about gifts for attendants well in advance of the wedding.

The selection is widespread. Brides no longer limit themselves to bracelets with monogrammed gifts or key chains although both of these items remain popular choices.

AND JEWELRY stores aren't the only places that these gifts can be found.
