

Hospital salutes Candystripers

Eight Candystripers from Farmington were singled out for awards when Our Lady of Providence League gave recognition to the teen volunteers who had given service to the hospital this summer.

Also in the recognition ceremonies were seven Farmington youth who had earned Red Cross Youth Certificates this summer.

Candystripers who had given 300 volunteer hours to the hospital were given a second stripe; those who had given 200 hours were given a first stripe. Pins were given to those who volunteered 150 hours.

Certificates went to those who had given 100 hours, and caps were awarded to those who had completed their first 30 hours of volunteer work.

LORI LILLY, 25336 Castlereight, was given her second stripe. Mary Jo Miller, 29585 Gramercy Court, and Mary Rowe, 24770 Power Road, both won their first strip and pin. Sue Schaffer, 29643 Fernhill, won her cap and certificate.

Caps were given to Judy Hoffenblum, Renee Sweeney, Barbara Jean Williamson and Carol Curran.

Those from Farmington accepting Red Cross Youth Certificates were Sara Carnahan, Carol Chapman, Tammy Durfee, Lynne Korte, Sheri Lord, Jill Tegge and Peggy Wilson.

Candystripers were assigned to all nursing units in the hospital and some worked in the hospital gift shop.

The duties of the Red Cross youth included assisting with the delivery of mail and menus to the patients; they worked in the admitting office and the departments of rehabilitation services.

Manipulating fibers

Students who attend Barbara Wolff's class in the Farmington Community Center will begin manipulating fibers by using a string heddle or by needle weaving on inexpensive frame looms when the fall sessions get under way. Both formal 10-week classes and mini workshops are available in a variety of arts and crafts at the center through the fall.

Mastectomees' news topic of seminar

The Oakland County Unit of the American Cancer Society will sponsor a seminar for breast cancer patients at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9 at Temple Emanuel-Synagogue at 14450 Ten Mile Road, Oak Park.

"What in the World Is New for Mastectomees?" is being conducted by the society's Reach to Recovery volunteers.

Reach to Recovery is a rehabilitative service for women who have had a breast removed as a result of cancer.

Mr. and Mrs.

Richard Bagozi

Maria Steiger and Richard Bagozi celebrated their recent wedding at a sunrise service in the meadow adjacent to the Farmington Unitarian Universalist Church.

The couple pledged the vows they had written themselves in the torch lit meadow.

Wedding party members who held the lit torches for the ceremony were the bride's sisters Linda Steiger and Maria Steiger; the groom's brother Bob Bagozi; Jeff Taylor, Bob Dooley, Sue McCrory, Joan Heston and Janie Heston.

The bride designed her own green satin gown in keeping with the outdoor decor, and her mother created a three-layer wedding pie.

The couple received guests at the church immediately following the ceremony.
