

Love wins over accident

A wedding that took place 14 hours earlier than scheduled was performed at the bedside of John Leonard Voskuhl early Saturday morning in Botsford Hospital.

Voskuhl was wed to Donna Bassey by the Rev. Bruce Gun, of Brightmoor Tabernacle, a few hours before Voskuhl had surgery on his right leg.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs. Wanda Laird, 2101 St. Francis, Farmington, was returning from his bachelor party around midnight Friday when his motorcycle crashed into a tree on Hanes Road near Shawassee. His mother said he had swerved to prevent hitting a dog, then lost control of the vehicle when bright lights from a passing car hit his eyes.

THE COUPLE HAD planned to be married in ceremonies at the church Saturday evening and were prepared to greet 75 guests at a reception in the home of the bride's parents, 2102 Seminole, Southfield. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Bassey.

The new Mrs. Voskuhl, without her bridegroom, received guests at the reception.

"We called the minister at 4 a.m.," Mrs. Laird said, "because John was due for surgery that morning. He told us he didn't care if he was married in a suit, a tuxedo or his underwear."

Voskuhl attended Clarenceville High School and his bride is a graduate of Southfield High School.

be postponed for at least six months, doctors have told her.

She is now making a temporary home with her new mother-in-law. The wedding trip to Canada will have to Voskuhl may have more surgery. "At this point," Mrs. Laird said, "we just don't know."
